Children Are More Than Small Adults ABO/NY

Live August 26th 1pm EST
1 Hour

This course is designed for opticians who dispense confidently for adults and want to strengthen the pediatric side of their craft. Built on the principle that children are not small adults, it examines how facial anatomy, communication style, activity patterns, and adaptation experience change the dispensing conversation from prescription analysis through final collection.

Participants work through a structured, claim-free workflow (mindset, prescription review, lens considerations, pediatric measurements, frame selection, and the collection handoff) that reduces rework, protects accurate optics for a developing visual system, and keeps every recommendation within dispensing scope and prescriber direction.

Emphasis is placed on recalibrating existing adult skills rather than relearning fundamentals.

This course is approved for 1 hour of CE credit by the ABO & New York state.

- To receive CE credit, you must be actively participating with the instructor during the live session.
- Watching the recording will provide great educational content, it will not result in receiving CE credit.
